Did you know?

All of MLSE LaunchPad's registered programs teach 'Life-skills' through sport. Life-skills are sometimes called soft-skills and are fundamental to helping kids be successful in life – on and off the court.

Why does MLSE LaunchPad teach Life Skills? When used intentionally, sport can be a powerful tool to teach physical skills as well as mental skills. On the court, kids expect to learn, work hard, and develop new skills. Just like learning to shoot a basketball, learning life skills like self-regulation, grit, social competence, and self-esteem takes practice and good coaching.

How do we teach them? Every program cycle has a different life-skill focus that coaches discuss with our members, helping them learn lessons on the court that they can use in their life, like at home or in school. Our coaches will use games and drills that teach life-skills and use group discussions at the end of the day to help kids reflect on what they learned on the court. Our goal is for members to use sport as a platform to learn life-skills so they can recognize & reach their potential!
